Opening in High Style

What Is Santa Clara Style?

Santa Clara Style is almost undefinable. It is a generalization that includes everything from our athletic zeal, to our religious spirit. It envolves our traditions, and our fashions, in school and out. Santa Clara Style can best be described by those students who experience it everyday.

"Santa Clara Style is success with a good attitude. We reach new goals with hard work, and maintain a good reputation."

Emily San Jose

"Santa Clara's sense of style is marked by pride, leadership, spirit, and hard work."

Donna Maeda

"Pride is our name, spirit is our game, S.C. is family that all can see. We can walk a million mile, cause pride and spirit is our style."

Lisa Walker

"Santa Clara Style is the unity. The idea of all for one and one for all! The style is expressed through the spirit of all those assembled at Santa Clara. Santa Clara is a style for all other schools to follow."

Derek Rawnsley

"Santa Clara is a school with much style. Its name is known throughout the county. The school represents high standards, good education, and the determination to succeed."

Chris Tormey

"Santa Clara Style is pride, knowing who we are, pushing ourselves to the limit, and trying to achieve those goals that we so strongly desire."

Jim Ramirez

"Santa Clara's Style is a place where students unite as one under God. Through Santa Clara a new window of life is opened to us everyday."

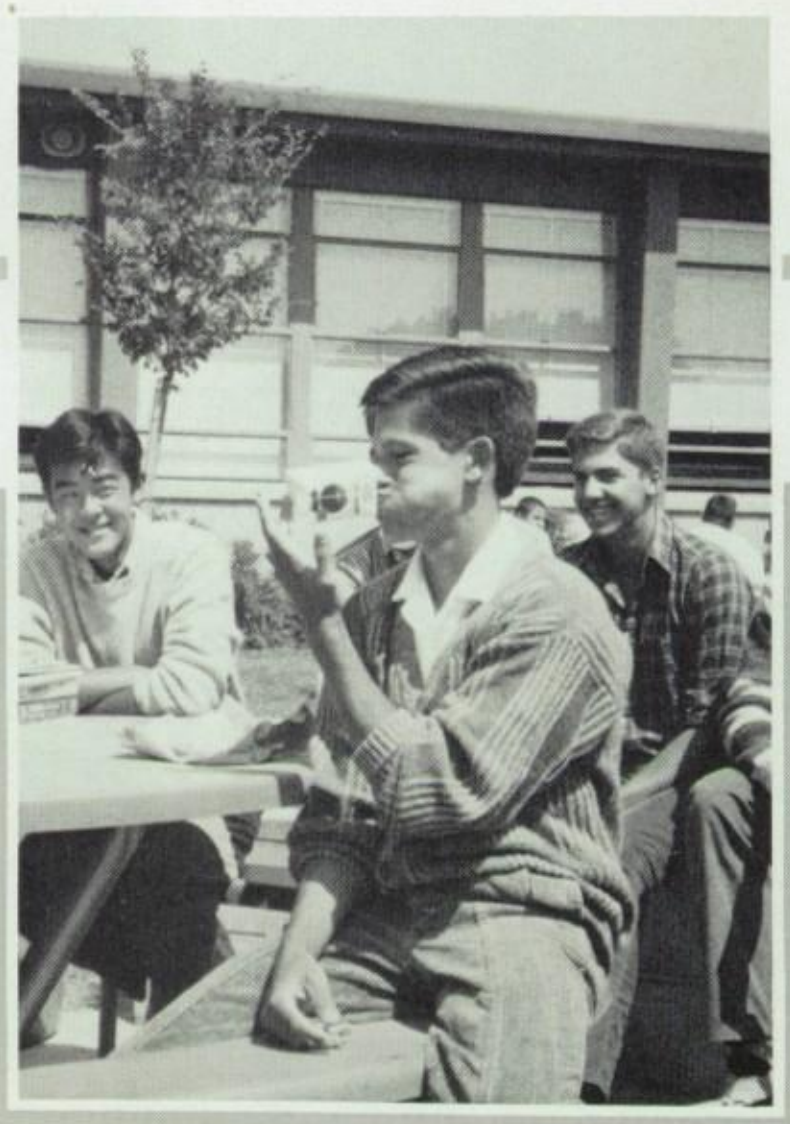
Student Life



As trends and moods change, so do yearbooks; thus the Onward '86 has gone Stylish! Throughout the following pages you will find the memorable experiences that made your year here at Santa Clara one that will never be forgotten.

We began with Slave Day when the freshmen were officially welcomed into the Santa Clara Family. It was a fun day for both freshmen and seniors alike. Many new friendships were made, and the seniors finally took their stand as the ruling class.

The retreat followed in early October giving the seniors the inspiration to grow within themselves, and to reach out to one another. It was an unforgettable experience for some, and a learning experience for others. The retreat brought some strangers and friends together, and reminded them of the value of friendship and of the importance of God in their lives.

A permanent reflection of this year can be seen in the styles and trends that made it different from last year. These lasting impressions of 1985-1986 will give us something to look back on and to remember, and something to laugh about in future times reminiscing.

Homecoming was a grand event. The elections were exciting, and had many people praying for their friends to win. Spirit week was a time for all four classes to pull together as competitors, and fight for the spirit stick. Everyone had a great time, and oh how that S.C. spirit did shine.

Fads Change With The Seasons But S.C. Saints Are Fashionable To The Finish

Fads are a natural part of our lives because we create and change them, which makes them all the more fun. What is "in" today, is "out" tomorrow, so there is always something new going on. Whereas last year's craze was the rush of Madonnas, this year's trend is still in the making. Crimped hair became contagious, but it could not surpass the already popular asymmetrical hairstyles. Tons of Mousses and gels were used in creating these original styles, and gallons of hairspray helped to keep it all in place. Even the guys got in on this craze. Flattops sculptured with dep became the newest fad in the world of men's fashions. For both guys and girls, paisley prints were a new addition to the fashion scene. These colorful clothes brought with them a new dimension to the word vogue.

Diamonds, Diamonds, Diamonds! Not really diamonds of course, but the slightly more affordable flash of rhinestones. They could be found everywhere from jewelry to nylons. Everyone was wearing rhinestones.

The latest in footwear was all the rage at Santa Clara. Reeboks were the height of new fashion. From the faculty to the football players, these shoes were hot.

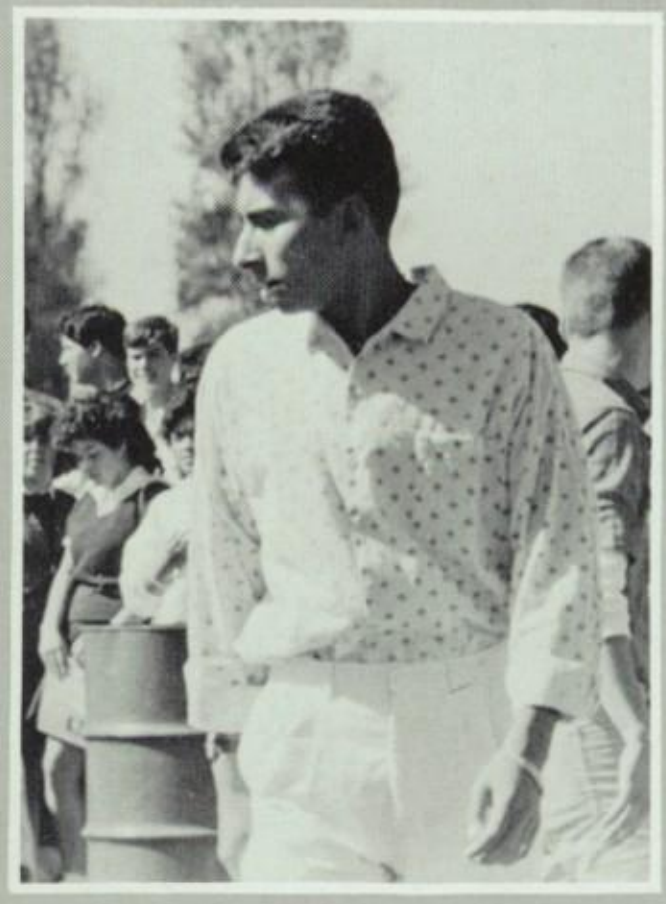
Trends and fads will change, just as we will change, but one fact will remain; no matter what we wear or how we wear it, here at Santa Clara we do it with style.

Above: Tisha White adds her own style to the Santa Clara uniform. The green and blue plaid was not only worn during school hours, but also in the fashion scene around us.

Right: G.Q. woman Kitty Rodriguez shows her sense of fashion before hittin' the town Friday night. Long coats, oversized sweaters, broaches, and long skirts were a new addition to the trends of '85-'86.

Below: Javier Herrera is always up to date with fashion. This style of shirt was worn by many students both in and out of school.

Bottom: Raquel Magana follows the fad of mousse, and hairspray. Her sculptured look is only one of the originals seen here at Santa Clara.



Freshman and Seniors learn all about

Playing Their Roles

The seniors had a field day initiating the freshmen into the Santa Clara community. The initiation of the Frosh class meant that the seniors had finally reached the top. It was a day to be remembered by the freshmen as the first step in their Sainthood; for the seniors it symbolized the beginning of the end.

For many seniors, the day started before daybreak. However, it was the lucky freshmen who got dragged out of bed in the early morning hours to play slave for a day. Both freshmen and seniors alike made up for the lost sleep during classes, to the dismay of their teachers. When the seniors found the energy to stay awake, they wasted no time making the most of their chance to have slaves. Some freshmen were well treated in their slavery, while many had masters who showed no mercy.

The costumes created by the seniors were both interesting and original to say the least. The various ideas for costumes ranged from cartoon characters to movie stars. The celebrity line-up included Pee-Wee Herman, Madonna, Tina Turner, Buckwheat, Gumby, and a harem of belly dancers.

The highlight of the day was lunchtime on the senior patio. Seniors were fanned, fed, and pampered by their obedient slaves. If you happened to catch the stage show, you probably witnessed the very spirit of slave day.

The Senior Class Family Reaches For The

Exceptional

The first night at Cottontail Ranch held the promise of a very busy, but successful weekend. From the beginning the seniors noticed that this retreat was to have a more prominent emphasis than the previous years: an emphasis on their relationship with God. It was a time of deep soul searching, and an awakening for many. A penance service, held on Saturday night, helped the seniors to clear their conscience, and become much closer to God.

This wasn't only a time of growing to know God, it was also a growing experience among friends. Teachers and students alike laughed and cried together. No one was afraid to be honest, even with people they had never known very well. The masks that so many people wear were removed, and finally the seniors began to know each other.

The families that were formed this weekend were one way that people became closer to one another, and God. One of the main purposes of the retreat was to unite the senior class through activities and groups like this. These families shared deep feelings with each other. They discussed personal problems with their families at home, their relationship with others in the class, and their feelings towards God. Students got to know their teachers through these groups, and many tears were shed during discussions. New friendships were made, and broken ones repaired.

Whether they were playing tag, performing skits, or making new friends, the seniors grew closer to one another and to God. They came home with a new sense of self worth, and a real feeling of belonging to their class. So at the end of this exhausting, but fulfilling weekend, the seniors realized that once you have shared so much with your classmates, the words "you needed me" take on a deeper meaning.

Grand Appearance Reveals Reigning Royalty.

During spirit week with float building, the spark of S.C. spirit remained alive in every student, as he or she looked forwar the long awaited Homecoming Day.

The week prior to the big game was filled with fun and excitement which brought the entire student body together. C competitions such as Crazy Tie Day, and Simon Says kept the Homecoming spirit alive, and was a continual reminder to students of the approaching spirit week finale.

In the early morning hours of Homecoming day, as flatbeds rolled into the parking lot, sleepy eyed students arri bringing nothing but a carload of props, and a spark of ingenuity that each class would transform into their own unique fl Exausted spirits revived at the beginning of the most memorable event of the day: halftime.

Shiny cars, carrying classy young men and elegant young ladies were among many of the crowd pleasers which highlighted the afternoon. But most spectacular was the beautifully constructed floats. Bangkok, Africa, Japan, and the United States were the four countries brought to life by the different classes. An exotic depiction of the magical land of India was portrayed by the Freshmen. A tropical jungle in Africa, with it's lush vegetation and wild animals was created by the Sophomore Class. An aura of tranquil beauty and oriental frailty was projected in the picturesque setting of Japan by the Juniors, and the familar stars and stripes of the good ol' U.S.A. flew with pride on the winning float by the Senior Class.

Spirit week was filled with enthusiastic student participation in all the class competitions, and proved to be a great build-up for the excitement of Homecoming Day. The work put in by the students during float building proved that although lands are far apart, it isn't difficult to get "Around the World in a Day."

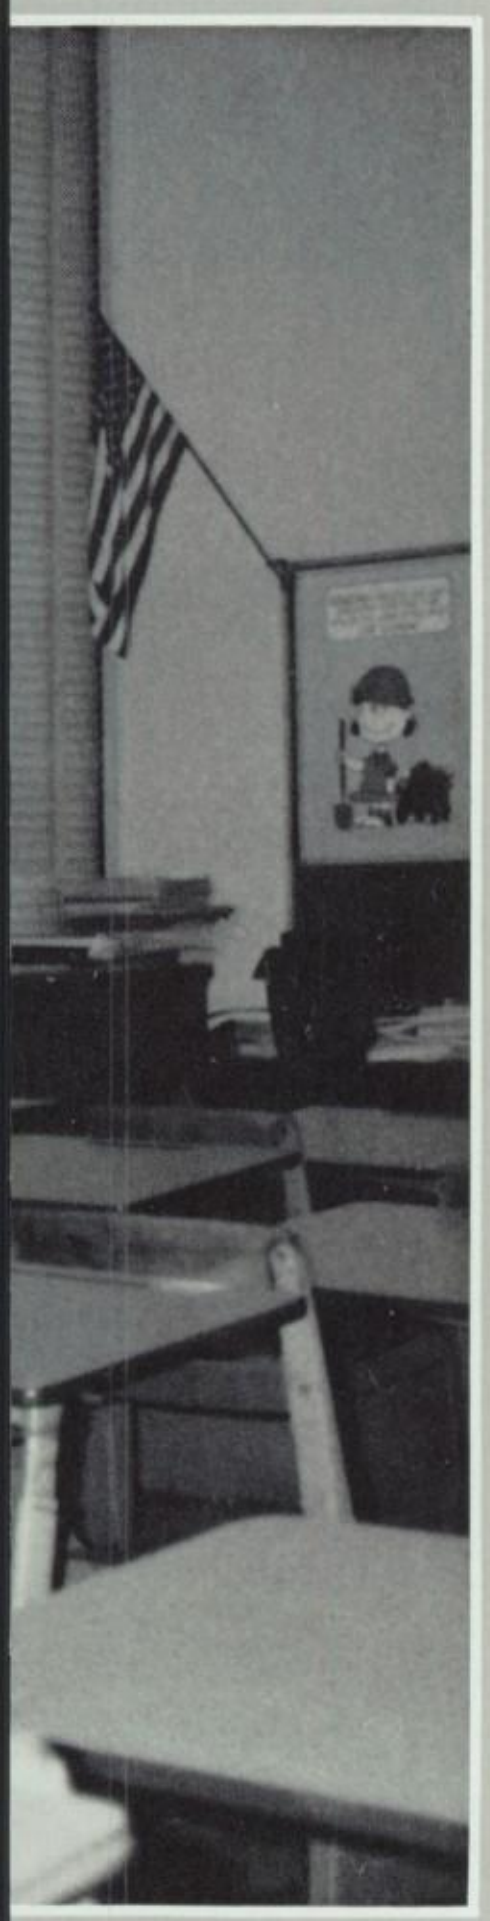
People



Who's Stylin

Santa Clara is filled with individuals, no one is exactly alike. The Freshman find themselves trying to adjust to this new environment they have recently been placed in. They are faced with Initiation, through which they become official members of the Santa Clara community. Sophomores are in a time of transition from a younger Freshman into an authoritative upperclassman. They are preparing for one of the highlights of being a teenager-learning to drive. Being a Junior means finally achieving that upperclassman status. They receive their rings which stand as a symbol for their accomplishments, but also a reminder of what is yet to come. Seniors are the highest of the social classes, they "know the ropes", and they are preparing to start a new life out of high school.

Teachers are those special people who pass on their knowledge to us. The rest of the staff and administration also play a part in our family. They, along with the faculty, build a strong foundation that continues the tradition of excellence and high standards. We are all very different people with varied roles; roles that work together in teaching, learning, and creating a better school.

Breaking New Ground

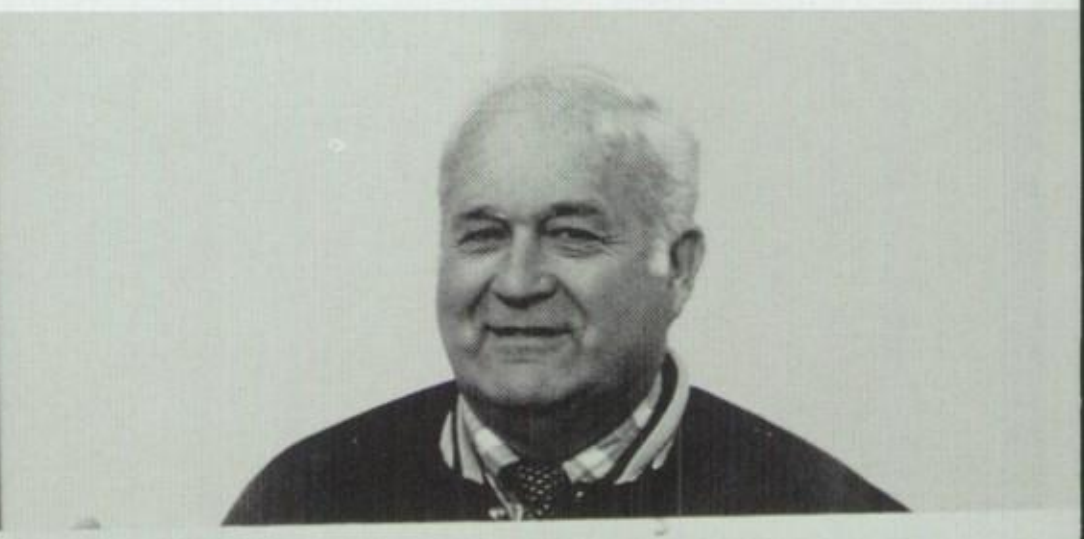
In this, the eighty-fifth year of Santa Clara High School, another historical milestone will mark the growth of this institution. Ground breaking has taken place for the new Friedrich Pavillion.

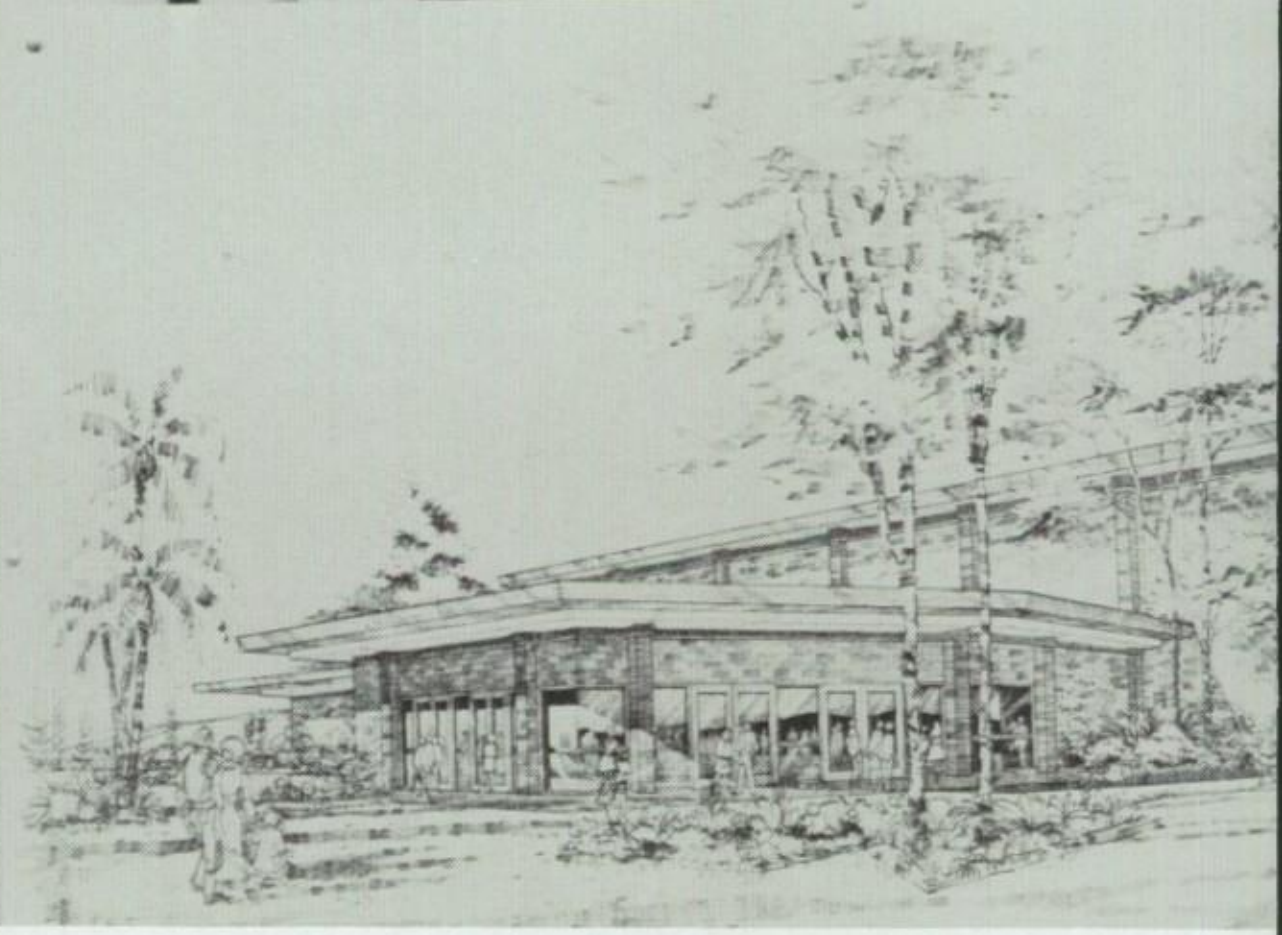
To the John and Joseph Friedrich Family, we express our appreciation and gratitude for their longtime generosity to Santa Clara High School and for making this new building a reality.

To D.I.aL. Services for their generous fund raising, architectual design and construction, we say Thank You.

To our friends and alumni, our sincerest thanks.

Br. Hilarion O'Conner





Br. Hilarion O'Conner, Coach Cvijanovich and A.S.b. President Mike Velthoen display the plans for our new gym.

Dear Seniors,

Your four years at Santa Clara end with a ceremony we call Commencement. By definition, the word "commencement" means "a beginning" and so, in truth, this ending is your beginning.

For some of you it is the beginning of higher education; for others it is a start of a new career. For all of you it is the beginning of adult life and all of the rights and responsibilities which that entails. In one sense, to begin is to begin again . . . to start fresh on the road which has brought you to this point in your life. The map is drawn in more details, the directions newly-set, the signposts more recognizable.

As you leave, you go with the knowledge that your teachers have contributed to the refining of your direction. Be grateful, therefore, for their help these past years. You go with our prayers for a happy and successful life. Remember your roots at Santa Clara. What you become in the years ahead will be a reflection of what happened to you while you were here.

God bless you all,

Growing To Understand Each Other.

I came as a freshman feeling alone and afraid, not knowing what to expect from you. My image of you was strict, scholarly and a little unkind. You were an authority figure like the written law, with cold hard facts, and no exceptions.

My second year of high school, I thought I knew it all. I lashed out at you with mocking rebellion, but deep inside I had no harmful intentions. The barrier between the students and the teachers began to break down, and I saw you as a person with feelings. A slight change began to take place, but I didn't fully acknowledge it yet.

As I moved on to my third year I realized what a learning experience my past two years had been. Right away I recognized the change between us. We became friends, and began to talk easily with one another. I learned that your comments were not meant to criticize but rather to motivate. Through your discipline and strength I've learned valuable habits that will contribute to a successful future.

As a senior at the peak of my high school years, I'd like to say "thanks." My rebellious ways and arroganace were a lot to put up with. You are a freind who will be in my heart today, tomorrow, and always. I've seen that being a teacher takes a great amount of patience and conscious effort. You deserve full credit. Thank you.

Br. Edward: Dedication to a life of service

In 1985, we took special joy in celebrating with Brother Edward Gresnigt his 25th Anniversary with the order of Our Lady, Mother of Mercy.

Brother Edward was born in Holland in 1942, and by the age of twelve he became interested in religious life. This interest was enhanced greatly by the brothers who taught him as a young man. He entered the novitiate in 1960, and made his final commitment of vows to his order in 1966. One of his first experiences in teaching was with the first graders in The Hague. Shortly after, in 1965, he came to California and recieved his B.A. and M.A. in History. He also earned a California Standard Teaching Credential from Loyola University in Los Angeles. Then in 1967, he began teaching religion and history at Santa Clara High School.

Brother Edward quickly became a vital part of our community. He has led many activities, such as the Christian Services Class, and he has organized Los Ninos trips to Tijuana. Currently, he holds the position of Chairman of the Social Studies Department, and he is also Superior of the Oxnard Community of Brothers.

Brother has always found great pleasure in seeing his students grow in their commitment ot Christianity. He has wanted to teach, and spread the word of Jesus even before he entered the novitiate.

Santa Clara has truly benefited from Brother Edward as a teacher, and as a Christian leader. He has given true meaning to the word dedication, and we take great pleasure in having him as a special member of our Santa Clara Family.

Wondering What The Future Holds

"School Day Memories"

As we reach out our hand
The diploma we grasp,
While we think of the memories
Of the years in the past.
Tears fill our eyes
Because it's all gone,
We're starting a new life,
We have to move on.
We hope friends will keep in touch
As the years pass us by,
Although it hurts inside
We'll try not to cry.
We think of kindergarten
And our first day,
Now we've reached the end
We are going away.
How do you say good-by
To friends who mean so much?
Will there be time
To sincerely keep in touch?
You'll always have the memories
Of your school years from day one,
Don't think of school as ending-
Think a new life has begun.

Fighting The Epidemic

Senioritis-it is a disease that afflicts every senior at some time in his or her final year of high school. It is highly contagious; as soon as it hits one person it starts to spread. Symptoms are common and easily spotted; they range from apathetic answers such as "I don't know' or "What?!?!" to obvious absences that linger on for days. Many seniors are caught staring into space while they are supposed to be doing written work. Others reportedly experience difficulty staying awake during class lectures. At many high schools, seniors can almost always be seen aimlessly roaming the hallways. The causes of this lack of enthusiasum are apparent: many seniors realize that they are experiencing their final year of high school, which is also their final year of required schooling. Some make the strange assumption that nothing pertains to them any longer: dress codes, off-campus rules, or grade requirements. The result of these things? A disease called "Senioritis", and the cure for Senioritis? That long awaited day at the beginning of June: Graduation.

What's A Friend For?

Remember all the times someone covered for us because we weren't where we were supposed to be? Or the times we stayed on the phone with someone all night crying or complaining when things just weren't going right? These certain "someones" exist in all of our lives-they are our friends, the people whose constant support and companionship have remained with us throughout the years. During good times and bad, our friends have stood by our side. It is especially during the bad times that we realize just how much our friends mean to us.

This year, we, as seniors, have aquired a better appreciation for the true bond of friendship. Since our first day here in September of 1982, we've shared countless memorable experiences. We've made a lot of friends: some for a semester, some for a year, some for a lifetime, and we've really come to know the true meaning of the word "friendship".

But as graduating seniors, our lives are beginning to move at a rapid pace. This change makes it difficult to retain some of the friendships we've made. Graduation will prove to be a parting point for many of us who will be attending college or moving far away.

Some friends have passed through our lives quickly-we've shared experiences, classes, and companionship. But we've made long - lasting friends too-and these are the ones we treasure the most. Although most of us will go our seperate ways come June, we can always recall our high school memories, and what a big role our friends played in them. These years have proven to be crucial in making us who we are, and who we will become. It's good to know that so many people have helped us along the way, and many more will be there to help us along in the future.

After being asked the question, "What is a Senior?", Seniors responded: A SENIOR IS. . .
-Someone who has matured over the years, and has a distinct knowledge of what he is capable of getting away with.
-A role model to all underclassmen.
-Authority and Power!
-Not afraid to make a fool of himself after all these years.
-Leaving an old life and starting a new one.
-Someone who leaves an impression on the school and others before graduating.
-Brave and testing.
-More concerned with, "What's going on this weekend?" than with, "What was for homework?".
-Approaching adulthood, enjoying the last days of childhood.
-A mature student; trying to find a goal in life after graduation.

Graduation Is:

— Thinking you have the key to life, only to find you're trying to open the wrong door!
— Moving up and moving out.
— Never having to wear blackwatch plaid again!
— One big relief for Seniors, but an even bigger relief for teachers.
— Setting a goal and striving to achieve it.
— Becoming free and a tax-payer.
— A scary ordeal.
— Achieving a goal and moving on to bigger and better things.
— The end of the beginning, and the beginning of the end.

When Luis Tome came to Oxnard from Madrid, he knew (right away) that his life would be changed for the next ten months.

He entered his Junior year here at Santa Clara, and found things to be quite different from his hometown in Spain. Although schools in Madrid are in session for seven to eight hours a day, Luis found the rules and homework requirements to be more strict here. In spite of the unfamiliar setting, Luis managed to make friends very quickly. While he was here, he ate pizza for the first time, and went to his first football game. He enjoyed his stay in Oxnard and his time at Santa Clara, but he missed his family and girlfriend at home. When Luis returns to Madrid, he will leave with us a little of the culture of Spain, but he will take with him a slice of our californian style.

"And now you may kiss the bride"

These words were spoken by the priest during the memorable wedding in Mrs. Brisslinger's Loving class. Loving, a unique semester course taken by all juniors, is a class that helps students prepare for life in the 'real world'. It teaches them the dual aspects of christian vocations: the difficulties and the rewards.

One of the highlights of Loving was the wedding. The students planned the ceremony, finding prices of necessities such as cakes, flowers, and rings. Then, during class the traditional ceremony was carried out. The brides were adorned in elegant white gowns, and the grooms suited up in stunning tuxedos.

Another feature of this class was the parenting of egg babies. The campus was filled with tiny babies nestled in their makeshift cribs. Students learned the responsibilities of being parents by caring for, and protecting their little eggs throughout the tumultous school day.

Trying to find time: The Junior way of life.

With the reality of senior year rapidly approaching, the juniors went through a great deal of anxiety and stress throughout the year. Due dates piled up, and it became a frantic race to meet them. Term papers, book reports, homework, tests, and afterschool activities were sometimes shoved into a one week period, which led to student burn-out. The stress began after the realization that the junior year is given considerable weight on college admissions. Requirements needed to be met, counseling was set up, and taking the P.S.A.T.'s and S.A.T.'s were contended with. The juniors found all of their time disappearing, and searched for relief from the strain of school. It was all for the good of the future, but it sure took away from the present.

Catherine Hannon endures junior year pressure during frustrating research in the library.

What do Santa Clara students do on Saturday nights?

That was the question we asked students, and the response was clear. Students at Santa Clara love going out! As one student put it, "as far away from home as possible!" Here are the results.

1. Parties
2. Santa Clara games
3. Dancing at Xenon West, and going to the movies. (tied)
4. Going out with friends

The junior ring ceremony brought forth many new dimensions for the junior class. Not only was the ceremony a traditional Santa Clara event, but through it emerged a new unity, and a feeling of class involvement. The junior class came together and shared in an experience to remember. They felt a new pride: not only were they proud of their rings, but of their school, their class, and themselves. They received a sign that symbolized their accomplishments and hard work at Santa Clara. The junior ring ceremony helped to unite the class, and encouraged a pride that would last a lifetime.

All your life you've been relying on mom or dad to drive you around. You've developed your own bribery system, and you know just what gets them. But when that strategy fails, it's time to turn to your older brother or sister. You'll beg, plead, or cry, whatever it takes to get a ride to the movies or the mall. But finally your time has come, your 16th birthday is here, and Freedom is sitting on your doorstep. Now all you have to do is go get your license! Once you've conquered that driving test, the skys the limit for fun, freedom, and fancy living.

There's a feeling of supremacy when you're out on the road. As you cruise through town with a full tank, dark shades and radio blaring, that confident smile shows good times are up ahead.

But eventually driving becomes more than pedestrian target practice. The road is dangerous (After all, your friends are out there too!). Protecting that sparkling new paint job becomes a task in itself. Some people learn the hard way that burnin' rubber and showin' off ultimately takes its toll.

The cool shades, the sassy smiles, and the tough paint jobs are all classic details of rookie drivers turnin' big league. And no matter what you did or how you did it, it made your sophomore year extremely outrageous.

As an incoming freshman at Santa Clara High School, there is a lot to think about. Not only do they have to worry about starting their first year in high school, but they must worry about classes, teachers, and making new friends. But the girls have an additional worry: their uniform. How do you make a plain white blouse and a plaid skirt stylish? Although rules set the limits in most areas, many students still had doubts. So on the first day of school, unsuspecting freshmen wore their skirts a foot longer than any of the other classes. Yet within a week their skirts were hemmed, and they began to blend in the crowd. As the freshmen start to learn the routine at Santa Clara, they are more at ease. Eventually they open their mouths at rallies. Unfortunately their efforts, no matter how persistent, are met with boos. They learned the hard way that to be initiated into S.C. you must go through a typical 'freshman' period. But when the pace slows down and the hard times are through, they realize they are an important part of Santa Clara.

As the weeks go by and they become more accustomed to high school, they see that life as a freshman isn't so bad. It was even kinda fun. They realize that their year had been one of growth, learning and acceptance into the Santa Clara family.

As a freshman, didn't you hate it when . . .

—you had to have a bottom locker.
—you had to sit on the gym floor during the rallies.
—upperclassmen "booed" at you at the rallies.
—you had to wait for the Seniors to get out of their lockers before you could go get to your locker.
—the sophomores acted so cool because they weren't at the bottom anymore.
—upper-classmen picked on you.
—you and your friends wanted to stand up and start chanting "Freshmen" at the rallies and no one else would.
—you had to wear those dumb, stupid, dorky-looking signs before Slave day.

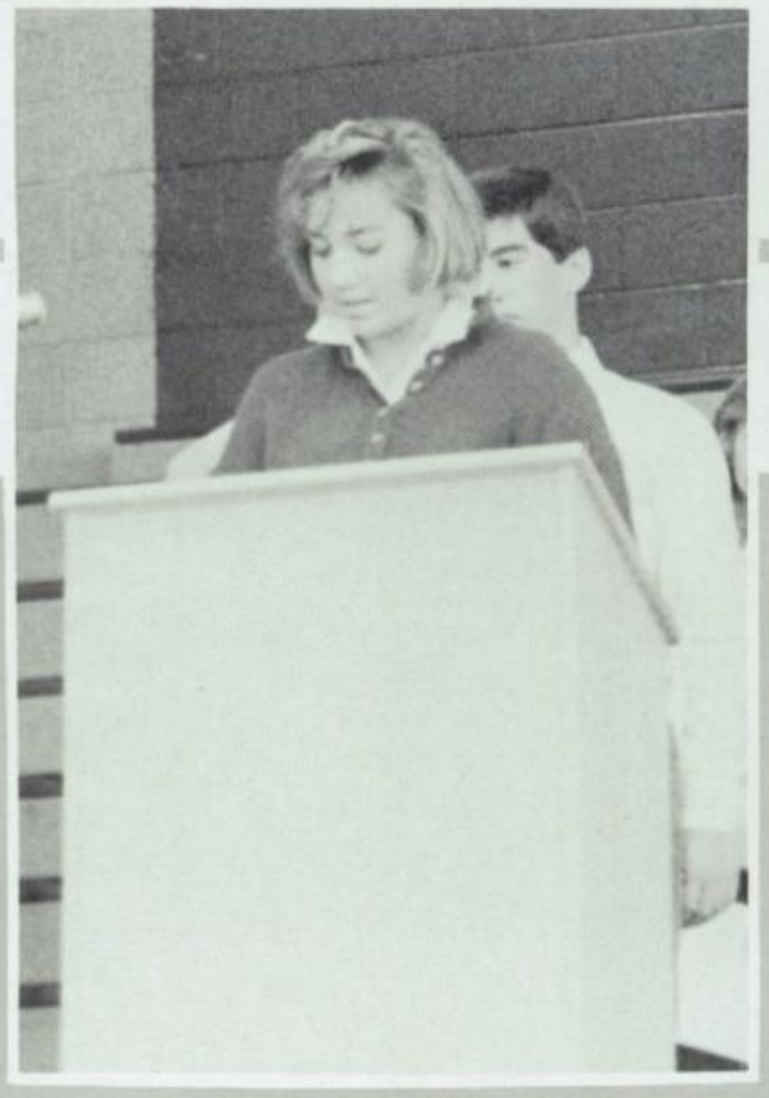
As the school days grow longer so does the homework. With so many things to do in one night, students find that its not very difficult to forget an assignment. The shock comes the next day when they're asked to turn it in. These are the times when some of the best excuses are created. Here are the 10 best excuses they have found to be the most original, some classics. But all come in handy when that assignment just doesn't get done.

1. My homework got lost in the locker.
2. My homework was in my car and my car was stolen.
3. My contacts were dirty.
4. It blew out of the car on the way to school.
5. My dog ate it! Really!
6. Homework! What homework???
7. My mom wouldn't let me do it.
8. I had too many other things to do.
9. I was robbed.
10. I fell asleep.

Clubs



Dedicated with Style

Without extracurricular activities, school would probably get very monotonous. Most clubs are formed to present an opportunity for the students to get more involved in school. There are three types of clubs; the first is a group formed to let the students work in producing something that they can take pride in. The Drama Club puts on a Talent Show and a few plays each year, while improving the acting abilities of its members. The Pep Club keeps school spirit and student participation running high. ASB, along with the student Senate, arranges all activities and helps the school run smoothly. The Band, just recently revived, performs at rallies and games.

The second type of organizations are the exclusive clubs for students who are accomplished in certain areas. Students who excell in academics are brought together in CSF, an honorary organization. Those who have earned their letter in any sport may belong to the Varsity or Letterman's Club.

The final type of organization is for those with special interests. People who enjoy working with computers can learn more about them and practice their uses through the Computer Club. Anyone taking French 1,2, or 3 is able to join the French Club, and those people who are interested in, or have a talent for public speaking belong to the Speech Club. Specifically, all of these clubs have very distinct purposes, each one being a special, unique group. But taken together, clubs enrich and complete a high school education.

Above: Involvement is a key purpose of clubs as LeAnn Locher takes part in an assembly.

MIKE VELTHOEN - President

I ran for ASB because I enjoyed being a part of student council. It is a great experience to be involved in organizing student activities. It made me appreciate people and their efforts.

KIM WEICH - Vice President

I decided to run for ASB officer because I thought it would be a challenge and a valuable experience. It is a way to relate with friends and fellow students, but also to the school as a whole.

MARY HAWBLITZEL-Secretary/Treasurer

I decided to run for ASB officer because in my previous years in student government I learned many positive ways to promote school spirit, and to be in a decision making position would insure that these ideas were put to use for the good of the student body.

KELLY CHAPARRO-ASB Publicity

I chose to become an ASB officer because I have so many ideas to build school pride, and to make this year memorable. I wanted to be in a position where I could have an important say in what goes on.

'in the spotlight'

This year the Drama Club, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Hill, put on two stage plays and one talent show. The first play, "Horton Hears the Who", was the stage version of a children's book by Dr. Seuss. Put on for Santa Clara Elementary at the beginning of the year. They even got a few of the more courageous grammar school kids to participate.

The main production, "The Butler Did It", was put on for the public at S.C. Elementary in April. As a spoof on one of Agatha Christie's mystery stories, it involved sudden murders, a curious detective, and a surprise ending. This mystery-comedy was put on with excellent results, as was the Talent Show in May, which brought together some of our school's top singers, dancers, instrumentalists, and comedians.

The Drama Club has been so successful that a drama class will be offered as part of our curriculum next fall. It will be a college-prep class, studying not only the art of acting, but also social and theatrical history. Mrs. Hill has high hopes for next year's possible Drama class because, as she puts it: "Studying and participating in drama can give a student a taste of culture and round off all areas of their education."

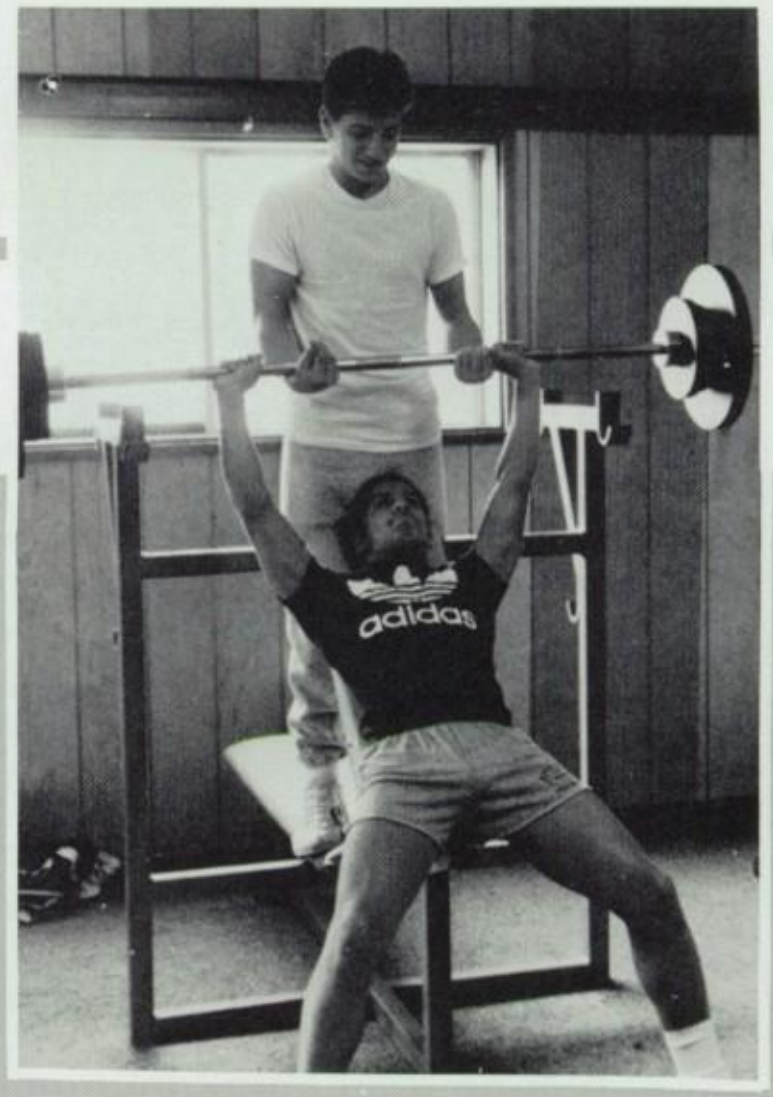
Athletics



Our Style Of Play

Before the game, butterflies turn in the athlete's stomach. The intense training and conditioning are about to be challenged. Will the sweat and tears of hard practices prevent failure? Coaching strategies will be put to the test. The weight training, calisthenics, and after school practices build the physical and mental condition of the athlete. As the modern gladiator puts on the blue and gold uniform, intense pride and determination dominate the thoughts. And as the Saint takes the field and eyes the opposition, ready to compete, all the hard work will be rewarded.

A long season proves varsity's Endless endurance

This season was a growing experience for both the team members and their coach, Miss Orpilla. It was Miss Orpilla's second year coaching volleyball and her first with the varsity team. It took a while for everyone to learn to cooperate with each other, and they went through a pretty rough season. Although they had a team of powerful servers and spikers, they couldn't bring it all together. Individual talents were very strong but problems arose with teamwork. All in all, the experience the players gained was beneficial, and it helped to lay a strong foundation for next year's team.

The future

They were a young team, many new to school and to volleyball, but the improvements from the first workouts, Miss Petrone says, were tremendous. Unity was strong and encouragement from fellow team members kept everyone going. With help from Laura Higgins' consistent serves, Natalie Loera's powerful spikes, and Gina Guiterrez's constant motivation, the team made it through the season. Many of the girls will move to varsity next year, and with the combined talents of the returning varsity players, they're sure to have a winning season.

Winning tradition returns to Santa Clara as

Varsity sweeps to the league championships

Football 1985 was a year to remember for second year coach Steve Dann, and his players, who together won the frontier league for the first time since 1968. The season started long before the first game; it began over the summer at football camp, passing league games, and extensive weightlifting sessions. With the beginning of "Hell Week", the team had set their goals: avenging last year's loss to Agoura, winning the frontier league, and eventually taking the C.I.F. Championship.

The first two games indicated the power and determination of the team. Two consectutive blowouts against St. Joseph and St. Bonaventure demonstrated the saint's strong defense, and explosive offense. After their only loss of the season which was to Rio Mesa, the Saints were once again on the winning track fired-up and unstoppable. They quickly disposed of Bishop Diego and Carpinteria. Their domination continued with victories over Santa Paula, homecoming victim Nordhoff, and the distruction of Fillmore. The stage was set for the showdown between the Saints and Agoura, the defending champs. After a big lead in the game, the defense showed their strength by holding the Chargers twice at the goalline, thus capping a 27-21 victory. The victory fulfilled two of the team's goals; a victory over Agoura, the first in over five years, and a league championship, the first in-over fifteen years. With the last regular season win over Calabasas, the Saints were tuned up to enter C.I.F. playoffs in search of their ultimate goal: the C.I.F. championship.

Capturing A Dream

Saints Finish Season Number 1 In Desert Mountain Conference

Santa Clara's varsity football team was recognized during the season by the C.I.F. Desert-Mountain Conference, (which consists of 30 teams) and in Ventura County for their achievements on the grid-iron. Our Saints started the pre-season tabbed number two in the conference, and number four in the Press-Courier Poll, which rates high school teams in the Ventura and Santa Barbara Counties. S.C. quickly lived up to their rankings by finishing their regular season 9-1 and staying in the number one or number two position in the conference for all but one week. The Saints proved they were a powerhouse in the county by staying in the Press-Courier's poll all season long, and being rated in the top five for eight weeks. By the end of the season our footballers were ready to enter post season play in defense of their number one conference and county ranking. It had been many a year since S.C. Varsity had reached the top as they did in 1985.

Saints domination complete

JV finish unbeaten

This has been an outstanding year for Coach Larry Lawrence and the J.V. football team. They went undefeated with a record of 8-0-2. This was largely due to their defensive line-up which consisted of strong players such as Will Jones, Andy Ahearn, and Kenny Knight. Quarterback Mike Teron also had an excellent season leading the offense with help from receivers Richard Mendez, Matt Young, and running back Steve Villa. The leadership and encouragement shown by the coaches were reflected by the successful team and proved to be a contributing factor to their victories.

Soccer Is A Kick

Soccer is the sport of the future for this country and for our school. Today the growing enthusiasm for soccer can be seen all throughout the United States, and likewise at Santa Clara.

Soccer is a sport that requires conditioning, players must be able to run quickly and almost continually, and kick well. It involves many skills also required for other sports, and this may be the reason why we have so many soccer players who also play football, baseball, or basketball.

The 1985-1986 varsity soccer team started a regrowth that will continue as Santa Clara strives to build a strong soccer program. With only two seniors, David Duarte and Tom Resler, and 15 underclassmen, Coach Archie Shum worked on the development of important skills during a long hard season.

The three captains: Joe Rodgers, Anthony Crisp and Derek Rawnsley, all from the junior class, along with the rest of the team, gained valuable experience that will pay off in the years to come. Just wait until next year!

Alive And Kicking

This year's J.V. has had a challenging year. The overwhelming number of freshmen, along with a few sophomores, kept the team alive and kicking. Team captains, Aaron Buck, Joseph Luna and Jonathan Mercer along with coaches Jim Worley and John Ramirez led the team through a tough season.

Because each player had anywhere from three to seven years of experience, they all contributed their own unique skill. The team took pride in their school and in their sport by showing respect to each other and their coaches. Some of this years outstanding plays came from Jason Holmbom, Joe Hoffman and J.J. Ramirez. This year has been one of growth and improvement for the J.V. team. Hopefully their playing experience will be reflected by their Varsity years.

Fighting To A Strong Finish

During the 1985-86 season, the girls varsity team knew that they would be up against tough competition, and that hard work would be the only way to confront the challenges ahead. With only a few returning players, the team pulled together for a successful season.

With the help of coaches Ben Duarte and Sonia Rosales the goal of conquering Calabasas was finally achieved. Calabasas has been a long time rival, and crushing the coyotes was the highlight of the season. Although the losses outnumbered the wins, the girls improved their teamwork and gained experience.

The team was young but they all contributed in the building of confidence, and the strengthening of morale. As co-team captain Kelly Chaparro commented: "Having such a new team was tough but we all learned how important it is to depend on one another, and work together."

Varsity Captures Frontier League Crown

For the S.C. varsity basketball team, 1985-86 was a year of blending the new with the old: the old of a long tradition of excellence found in another successful season, and the new of 11 first year varsity players joining only four returning lettermen.

The team's inexperience was apparent in their slow start with early season losses to Calabasas and Ventura. However the team grew in experience as the season continued and even was able to overcome the adversity of the loss of starters, Phil Fancher and Fred Santana, to injuries.

Entering league play with a preseason record of 7-6, the future was unpredictable at best. But the team jelled and rolled to a Frontier League Championship, finishing with an impressive 8-0 record. Thus the Saints realized their aspiration of returning to the CIF playoffs.

J.V. Boys: A Year Of Excellence

For the J.V. basketball team, the 1985-86 season went well. It started, however, slowly with losses against Ventura and Buena in the Santa Barbara Tournament. Recovering from the early season losses, the team improved as the season progressed winning the first 2 league games against Calabasas and Nordhoff. Then they made the mistake of taking Agoura too lightly, surprisingly getting out muscled and hustled, losing with only 3 players scoring. The J.V. Saints swept through the rest of their schedule until the rematch with Agoura, this time they lost in overtime after four starters fouled out. The team finished league with an 8-2 record after beating Santa Paula soundly in the last game.

Sophomores Complete A Successful Season

By Dominating The Frontier League

Preparation for the 1985-86 season started early for the Sophomore boys. Summer league games and strenuous weight lifting programs were only the beginning. 5:55 A.M. practices confirmed the dedication of the players. Their goals were set, and they were on their way.

The sophomores first game was against Bishop Diego's J.V. team- and despite opening game jitters, they won reassuringly. In their next three games they soundly beat Santa Barbara, Ventura, and Righetti. They fought a tough battle with Camarillo and Newbury Park only to experience devastating losses in the last seconds of the games.

In spite each of these let downs, the team remained persistent. After placing third in the Newbury Park Tournament, the Saints went on to defeat Channel Island's and Camarillo's Sophomore teams.

League was both enjoyable and disappointing for the team. Lacking strong competition the players won every game, and contributed equally to the success of the season.

Looking back the season was a great accomplishment. The final record was 17-2, but more importantly, through teamwork and discipline the players improved themselves as basketball players and people.

Freshmen Basketball is a stepping stone in preparation for higher levels- J.V. and Varsity. It gives our new students an opportunity to enhance their abilities and gain some experience playing basketball — the way we do it at Santa Clara. The Freshmen boys displayed their talents during a very successful season. Coming through with a 20-2 record overall, they kept the S.C. spirit alive by giving it their all.

Girls Sweep To The Frontier League Championships

The girls Varsity Basketball team got off to an excellent start, taking 2nd in the Kiwanas Tournament and 3rd in the Simi Valley Tournament. The team suffered a let down in pre-season, losing to Rio Mesa in their 2nd meeting. Rebounding from this tough loss, the girls battled through the rest of a difficult non-league schedule.

With the start of league the true Saints tradition came alive and the results were outstanding. The motivation of coaches Mr. McConville and Mr. Bradley helped the team to achieve an 8 - 0 league record. The constant drilling and practice after practice paid off with a Frontier League championship and the successful tradition of Santa Clara Girl's Basketball was continued.

J.V. Girls Finish League Undefeated

For the girls J.V. team, 1985-86 proved to be a very challenging year. With only three returning players, there were many questions to be answered. The varsity team showed tremendous support and patience in helping the J.V. learn new offenses and defenses. Aside from this assistance the players had to grow accustomed to each other's style, and develop a team spirit on their own.

They played a tough pre-season schedule, due to their inexperience and some difficult opponents, but the girls improved with each game. They worked hard and it showed. Turning it around with a one point victory over St. Joseph, the team went on to win six straight games before losing to Buena. The Saints recovered quickly from this upsetting loss, and remained undefeated for the rest of the season. The final record was 13-7 overall and 8-0 in league.

A big part of the teams success was due to the determination and dedication of the players. Equally responsible was the leadership and example set by the three sophomores: Gina Escamilla, Marian Breda, and team captain Suzanne Brick. These girls, along with the rest of the team are looking forward to the challenges and successes that wait for them next year.

Cross Country Comes Back

This year, after a five year absence, Cross-Country was revived as a sport at Santa Clara The team was organized in response to strong student interest and coached by Mr. Tim Bednar and Ms. Lupe Reyes. The team was comprised of both boys and girls from all four classes, who gained valuable experience in the teams inaugural season. The team participated in seven meets marked by strong individual performances.

The runners who had excelled throughout the season were rewarded for their dedication and ability. On Varsity, Mike Mathews received the most improved runner award, and Jim Cavanaugh was named most valuable. On Junior Varsity, Steve Sayward and Tracie East were the most improved runners, and Eileen Covarrubias was presented with the most valuable player award.

According to Ms. Reyes all the players ran exceptionally well. The team learned that the point of competing is not just the winning but the friends and memories that come along with it.

"Who Are We?- Who Else!?-S.C.!!"

Our cheerleading squad this year consisted of 8 JV and 7 Varsity members. Together we supported Santa Clara's football and basketball teams throughout the 1985-86 school year. We practiced 3 times a week to perfect cheers and routines for the games and rallies. Promoting spirit was hard work, but we were successful! We made boutonnieres for team members, and hung posters at games and at school to encourage and support our most cherished teams. By running the pep-rallies, developing skits, games, and cheers to entertain the student body, we were able to boost confidence and show our support not only for our players, but for our school. We owe a special thanks to our moderator, Mrs. Linda Fuchs for her ideas and support all year. We also owe a lot of thanks to the student body. Their support for S.C. kept us motivated and without them, success would have been impossible.

Looking back, the hard work and extra time we put in was all worth it. We were honored to be a part of Santa Clara during its successful year in sports.

"Participation And Growth At Camp"

Each summer, the cheerleading squad attends the United Spirit Association cheerleading camp, which is held at U.C.S.B. For four days and three nights they spend time learning new cheers, original ideas for rallies, and creative ways to promote spirit.

Competitions are a major part of camp, and this year the J.V. and Varsity squads did extremely well. Every ribbon that the J.V.'s won was a superior award; the highest catagory possible. The J.V. squad also won a trophy in this catagory. The Varsity cheerleaders won awards from both the excellent and superior divisions.

In their competitions our cheerleaders proved their enthusiasm and pride in Santa Clara. Although camp involved hard work and persistence it was a time for S.C. cheerleaders to let their winning spirits shine.

"Small But Mighty"

In the 1985-86 school year, the Santa Clara Drill Team gained recognition by promoting spirit for S.C.H.S. Always cheering on S.C. football and basketball players, the drill team also performed dance routines during home-game half times. In addition to this immediate participation within the school, the drill team is involved with other representative activities such as summer camp and parades. The drill team in its second year at S.C. has been a welcome addition to spirit enthusiasm. They express their pride and spunk in their favorite slogan of being "Small but Mighty."

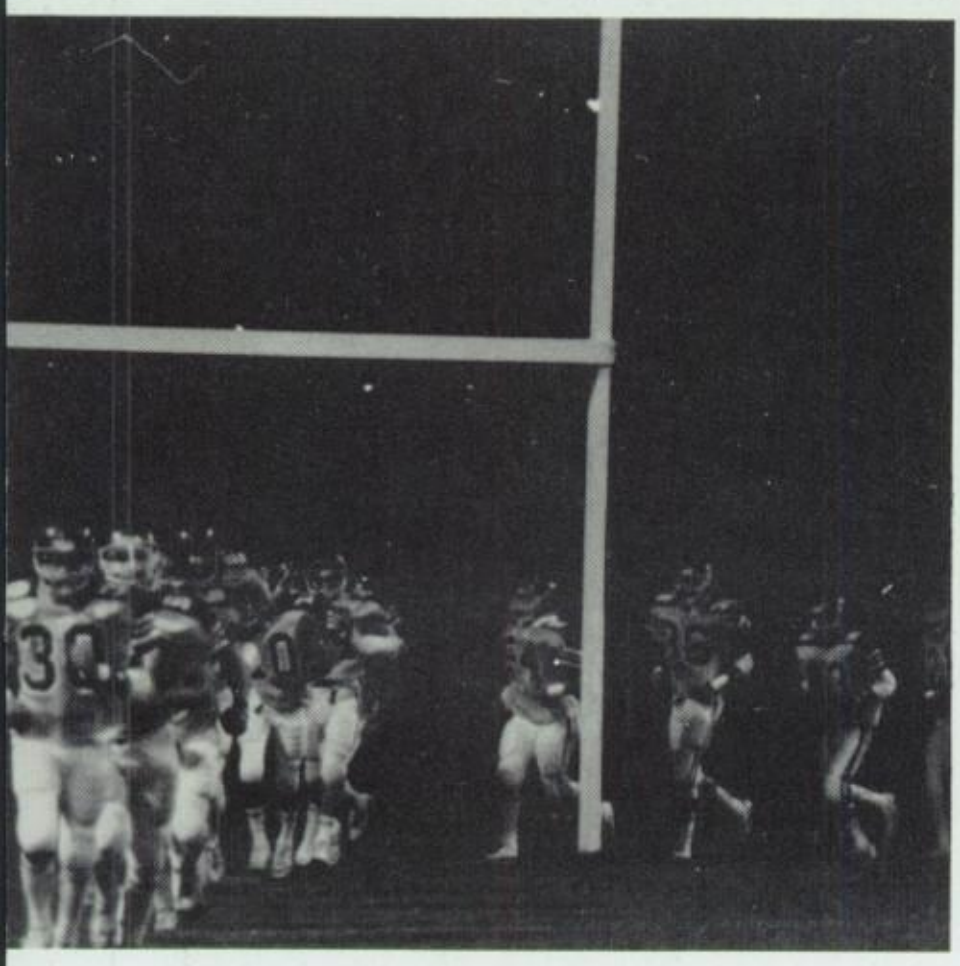
Right: Gina Escamilla scores another two for Santa Clara. As one of the Junior Varsity's team leaders, Gina led the girls through a very successful season.

Above: Derek Rawnsley hustles down the field to score another goal for the Varsity Soccer team. The season this year was a little slow, but the players learned the importance of teamwork and determination.

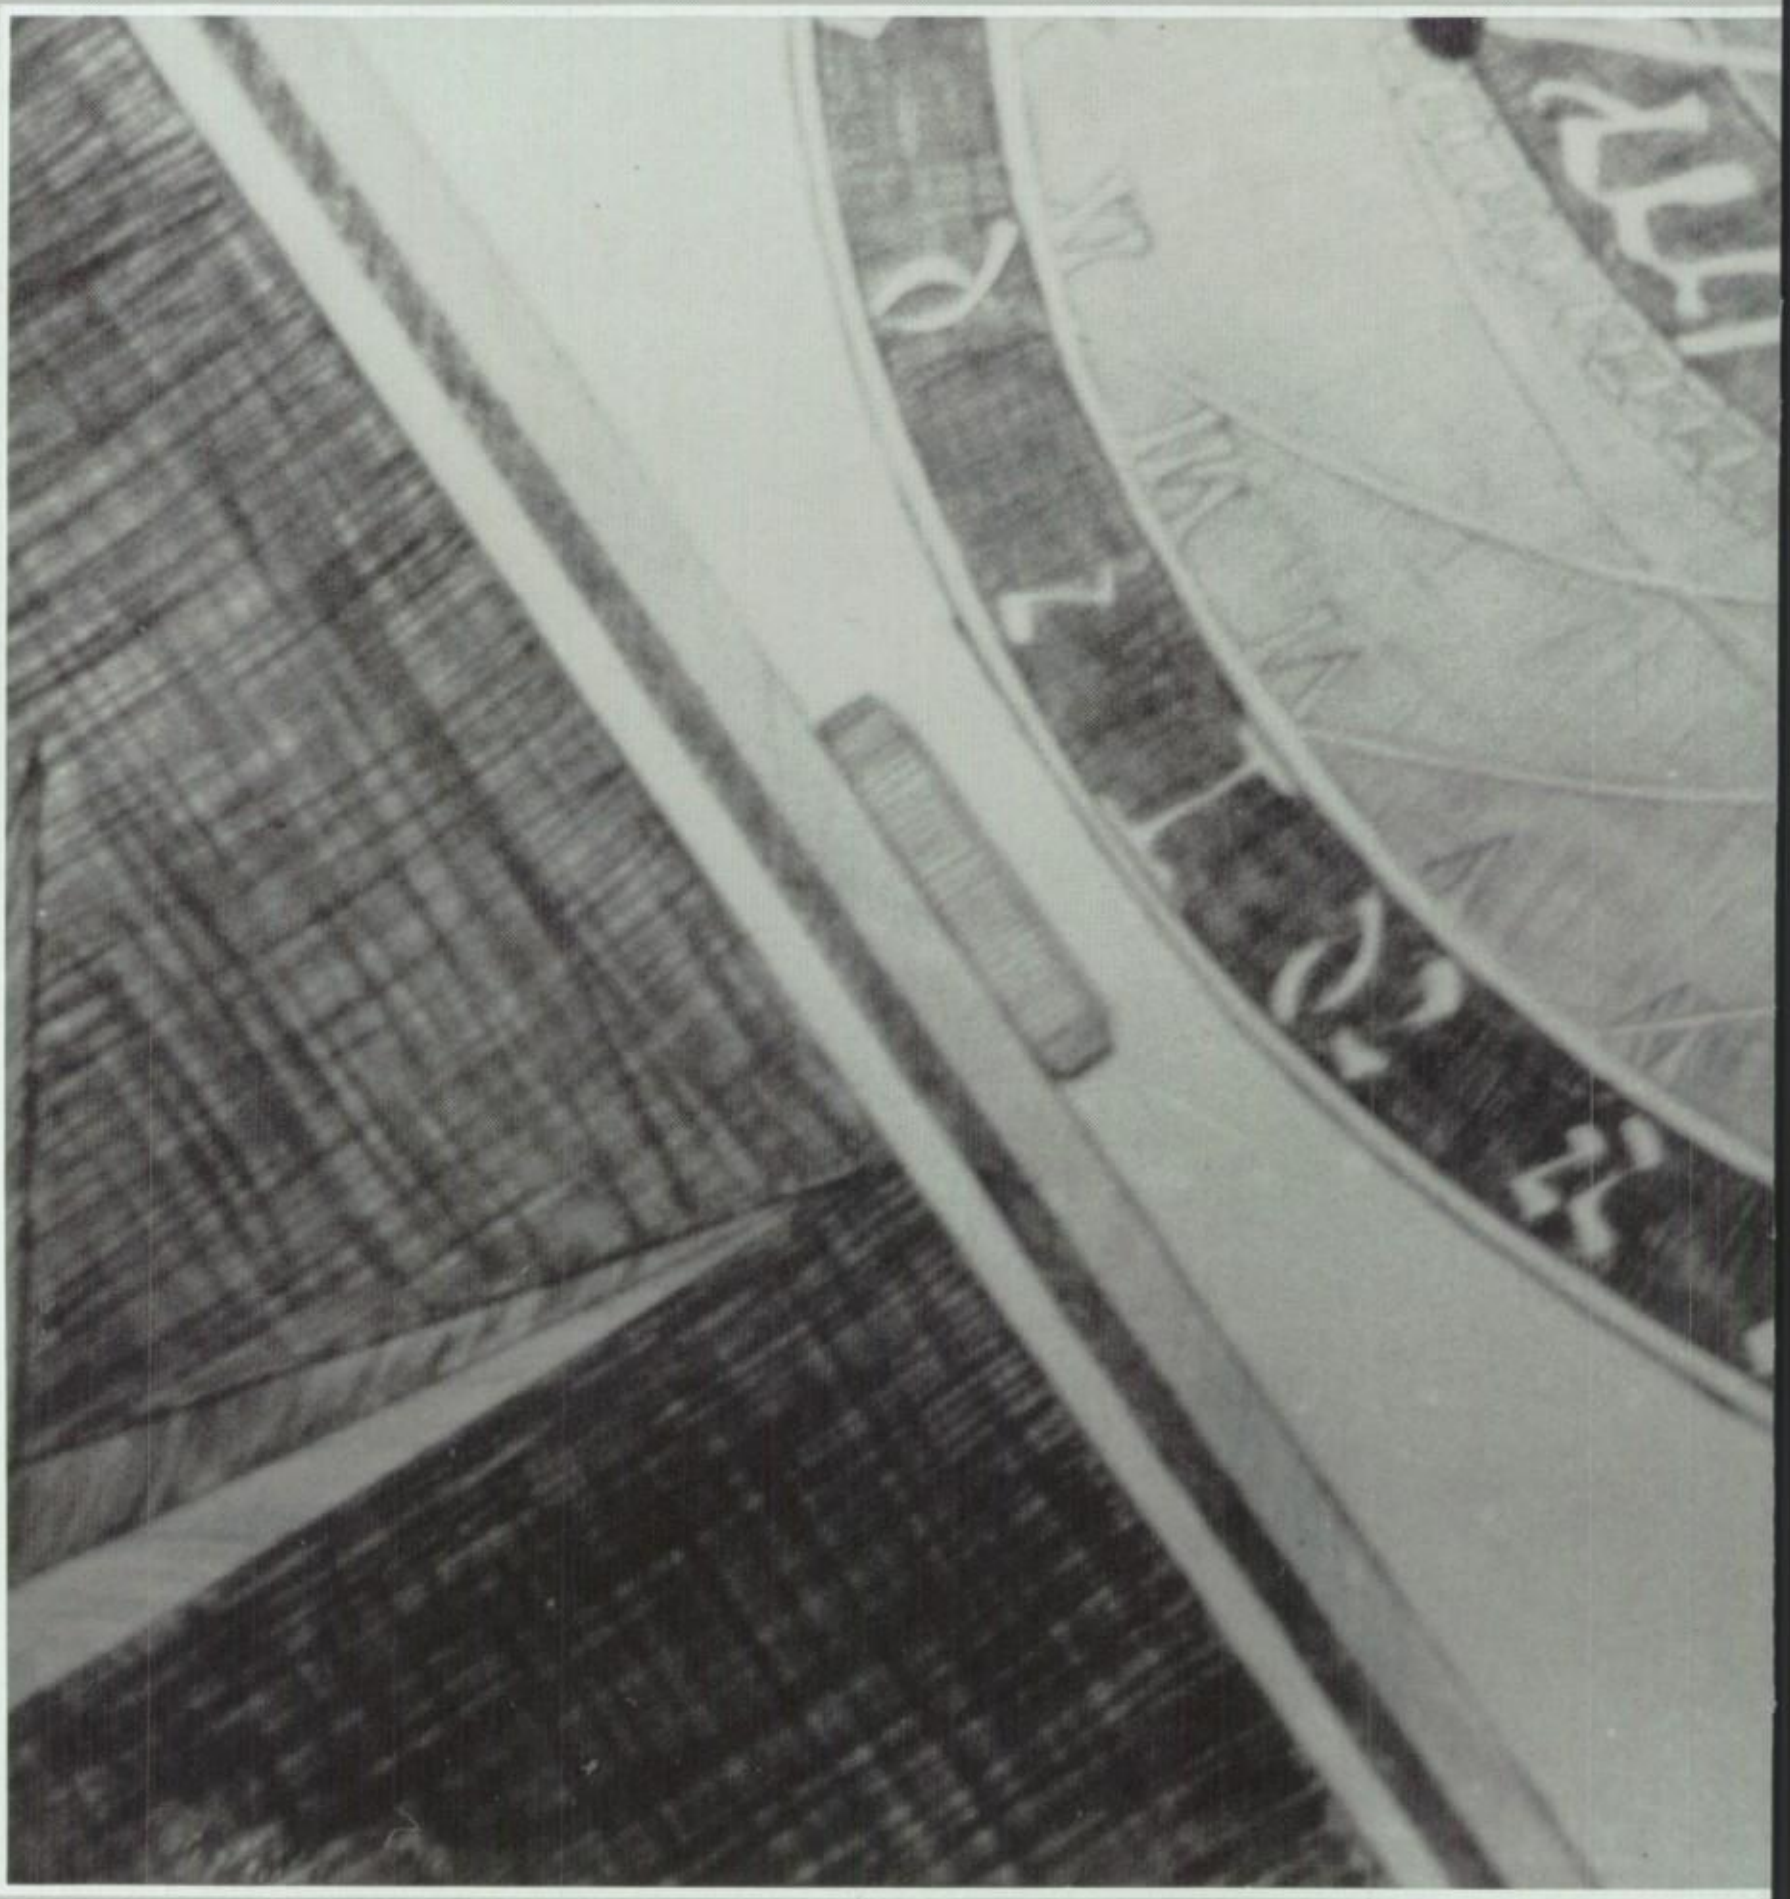


Top: The volleyball team gathers together to discuss the plays that helped them through a difficult season.

Above: Stacy Beardsley outruns the opponent on her way to scoring a goal for Santa Clara. Although the girls soccer team had a tough season, they accomplished some longstanding goals that made all the hard work worthwhile.

Left: Preparing to begin a big game, the football players file onto the field. This year was one of success and recognition for the players who made it to C.I.F. and proved that their strength and talent was overwhelming.

Fine Arts



Expressing Our Style

The art that comes from Santa Clara students is a statement about the world that surrounds them. Either by paint, charcoal, or pen, art is an extension of a person and his talents. It is a message from his heart expressed through his hands.

The artistic works in the next few pages reflect the mood of the individual. Some of the pieces seem humorous and light, while others might have a more serious tone. No matter what mood they generate, they leave a distinct impression on us.

Art allows a person to express himself to us. We are then able to see and feel his thoughts through certain words, colors, and images that have been chosen. Even without the physical presence of the artist, we are able to get to know that person because his work speaks for him.

To The Class Of '86

I'll give you my everything, my all,
I'll always be there when you call,
You can have my love, my heart, my soul,
You can have everything I've got, my whole.
I'd give you more, if only I could,
But my friendship and love is all
I've got left that's good.
I love you all so much my dearest friends,
I'll give you my everything, my all,
until the end.

I'LL MISS ALL OF YOU!!

Love,
Erica Henry

Long Distance Love

"Why?" I ask-
"do I miss you so?"
All you are is a guy,
a special one though.

I guess that must be
Why I feel such a way;
I miss you and love you
More with each passing day.

In fact I think my only wish
Would to be in your arms right now.
Although once sensibly thinking
I question myself with "how?!"

Reality is that you're miles away, and I couldn't touch you if I tried.
This means we can't hug - even share a smile.
And that you see, was the reason I cried.

But now I'm feeling better,
'cause I'm sure of how you feel
...
No matter the distance, you still care the same,
Therefore our love must truly be real.

-Heidi Polenz

Reality

Is reality all that great
A question I must get straight
If reality is the world in which we live
Then I'd be glad to give all my things
No matter how bad it stings
To leave this world behind and create another of a different kind.

-Mike Beers

Life

You'll never know how good you have it,
until that good is gone.
To be able to watch the sun go down,
or to see the break of dawn.
To be able to go to parties,
or invite over a friend.
Those were all the moments
you thought would never end.
But sometimes something happens,
that seems to get in the way.
You may not like it,
but you don't have any say.
Someday this will all pass,
and all bad things will disappear.
Remember when you're feeling down, and your world seems to be falling apart,
Life is the most important thing, you should treasure it with all your heart.

The Boogey-man

The stories we've all heard before,
Just old wives tales and folklore as children, we wanted more & more,
as adults we wonder what they're all for.

Old Sasquatch, Bigfoot, that's who,
the Boogey-man, he's comin'
for you call Grandpa, he knows just what to do,
Just a hocus pocus the monsters, they're all through.

See them during the day, but especially at night,
Either way, your heart soon fills with fright.
Eat you? They just might neither the brave nor dumb take flight.

You're grown up now, no
longer scared,
But, would you take a walk
with me,
in a cemetary, if I dared?

Becky Lamas

The Meaning Of Life

The upland winter wind blows down,
My body has no feeling.
The meaning of life is clear, now,
Their is no meaning regardless of want.

So long have I pondered in my days.
The long, harsh winters chill.
Is but a summers opposite thought.
The meaning of life, is death.

An Anonymous Junior

One Late Night . . .

How I picked you, I'll never know,
But then I left it, one red rose.
Sprawled messages across the glass,
Left my feelings, defenseless, unmasked.

Perfection

At times you take a look at yourself and you're not happy with what you see.
And it seems like anyone else is who you'd like to be.
"You can be whoever you want to be," is what you were always told.
"Just never be discouraged and keep reaching for the gold."
And on your journey for the gold, there are a few things to keep in mind
Because these tips will help you, reach the goals you hope to find.

one-never regret who you once were or the things that you have done.
two-never lose pride in what you are now- be happy about being you!
three-the most important of all- never stop dreaming of who you can be.

Now the outcome of your dreams
mainly depends on you.
Because no one else around you, can make your dreams come true!

Memories

Memories of you stay with me,
Oh why boy, can't they let me be?
I loved you once, but now you're gone.
But your memories still linger on.

Even in this morning air,
There are remnants of things we once shared,
The lake that lies before me,
and a picnic spot beneath a tree.
Oh why is everything I see,
Just one more memory?

These memories I must resist,
So I close my eyes and clench my fist.
Even though I start to cry,
I love you, but my love must die.

Becky Lamas

Love:

Love, is the smile of a friend,
a helping hand.
Or when someone says,
"I understand."
It's that compliment you give
When troubles come on bad.
It's the touch of a hand,
But most of all,
It's helping out someone
When they feel small.

Perfect Dreams

As I sleep, I dream of a far away place
Where everyone has plenty of space
Another world
Another presense unfurled
A state of being which has never been
And when we arrive
What will we derive
Will we create a better place
Nurture a masters race
Will we create our ending fate
Or will our reign be long and great
All questions I reason
Which is this most perfect state of dreaming

When You Look Into My Eyes. . .

When you look into my eyes,
  can you see the tears?
Or do you see the laughter,
  that covers up my fears?

When you look into my eyes,
  do you find my love?
Can't you understand
  it's you I'm thinking of?

When you look into my eyes
  do they say how much I care?
Do they tell you my whole life with you I want to share?

When you look into my eyes
  do you hear our special song?
Do you ever wonder,
  Where our friendship's gone?

When you look into my eyes
  do you know that I'm alone?
Since you came along,
  my life is not my own.

When you look into my eyes,
  do you feel all of my pain?
Do you even care,
  or is our love a game?

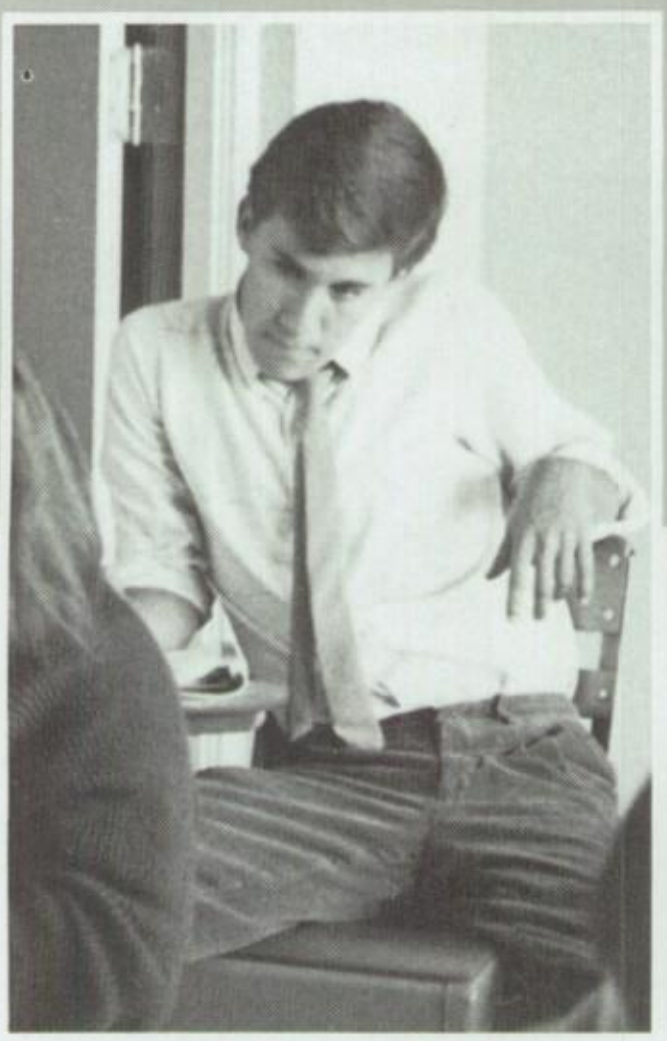
Going out in Style

The sun sets, the days blends into night, and looking back it was both an end and a beginning. Final exams close the door on a nostalgic year. The 830 students breath a sigh of relief as the daily schoolwork drudgeries come to an end, and three carefree months of summer replace them. This is a time for both a reflection on past days, and an eagerness to begin new phases in our lives. We reflect on what we've accomplished: our activities, studies, and after school jobs- and then we turn to our future.

Freshmen and Sophomores progress up the academic ladder, step by step. Before they realize it, they will be at the top. Juniors. have reached their long awaited senior year with great expectations, and the dream of graduation finally becomes a reality for the anxious Seniors.

With their high school days behind them, the graduates walk confidently into a world of new opportunities. No more familiar routine to return to in September, but rather they must greet new faces, new responsibilities, and new challenges. As the seniors leave behind the memories of '85-'86, the other three classes move forward to create their own unique STYLE.

Right: John Friedrich and Br. Hilarion O'Conner initiate the ground breaking ceremonies on the future sight of the Friedrich Pavillion. Although rain got students, teachers, and supporters a little wet, it didn't dampen spirits a bit.



Right: Roy Rodriguez concentrates on the daily assignments of his class. As the school year rolled around to a finish, students found it tough to be attentive in class, but Roy manages this task fairly easily.

Center: Seniors get excited just thinking about graduation, and to show their enthusiasm they gathered in their lunch area to let everyone know how they feel.

Above: DeeAnn Davidson, Denise Castaneda, and Mario Maldonado participate in the Senior float by driving the island of Hawaii around the football field in the Homecoming Parade.

Above right: DeeDee Fitzgibbons walks aimlessly while waiting for the halftime activities on Homecoming Day. Whether it was driving cars, or dressing up in costumes- a majority of the students got involved in the spirit of the floats in the Homecoming parade.

Right: Anjanette Carillo eyes the camera while taking a break from her homework in detention.

Center: Christine Ruvalcaba and Brenda Salmonsen enjoy the break between classes. With the break increased to fifteen minutes students had plenty of time to visit with teachers and friends.

Middle left: Juniors Tarin Nash, Heidi Polenz and Monica Lovio share in the friendship that they experienced in '85-'86.

Bottom: Tracy Magnuson does some last minute studying for an upcoming quiz in her class.

Congratulations to the class of 1986! - G. Parchman. Brett McBride-RIO-love in my way, Kim.

Yoli, Fred, Gina, Lamer, and Kathy; thanx for being there! Fontz, don't forget your favorite "sister"! "Chemistry Clowns", thanx for the laughs! Gilbert, Rich, Alex and Joe; good luck always! Jana, Melissa, and Diana, you're special friends! Danny, Joe, and Eddie, stay crazy! Tito, my favorite, keep smiling! To all those mentioned above, I love ya!! Luv, Stacey Smith.

Thanks to family and friends, the Senior class, and especially S.C. as an institution. I have learned from my mistakes, and have prospered from my achievements due to those I thanked. "I came, studied, learned, and conquered!" Eric Rivera.

David, Good luck in everything you try in the future and sometimes, when you are all alone, think of me. Be happy always, love, Me.

Varsity Football Frontier League Champs: Congratulations on your victorious season. Thank you for letting us be a part of your winning team. Your Watergirls, Susan and Stacy.

Mom and Dad, I'd like to thank you very much for all the sacrifices, large and small, that you've made for me, they haven't gone unappreciated. I LOVE YOU! Greg and Rocky, I hope that we can better develop our sibling bonds of brother-sister. Thanks for putting up with me. CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 1986! Susan Yount.

Our congratulations and best wishes, Jack! The Castanon Family.

Dear Staff, Thanks, B.T.B.

CONGRATULATIONS

Girls First Ever C.I.F. Championship

Left: Kathy Torres had the guts and determination to lead the team to the Southern Section Championship.

Below: Poised freshman Tammy Adkins' freethrowing and ball handling were invaluable in the playoffs.

Bottom left: Kim Weich breaks the Atscadero press, as the Saints explode to victory in the C.I.F. Championship game.

Bottom: S.C. C.I.F. takes teamwork.

Congratulations!

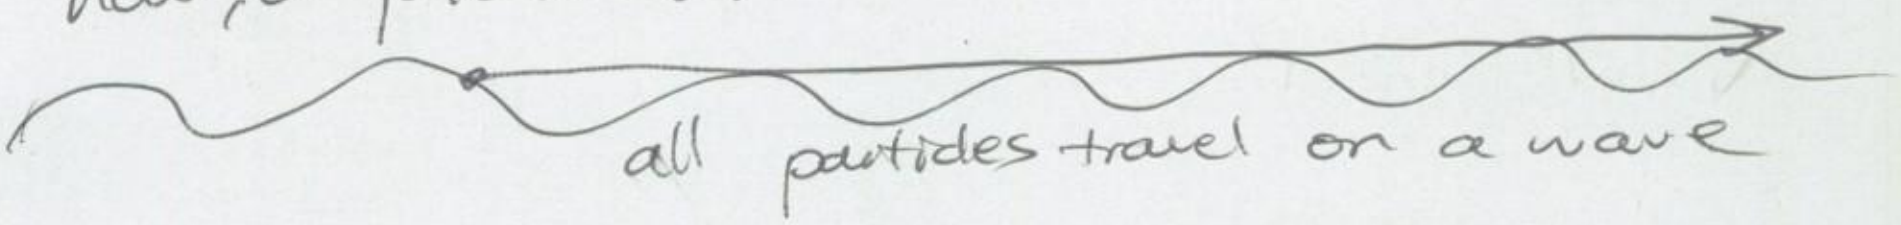
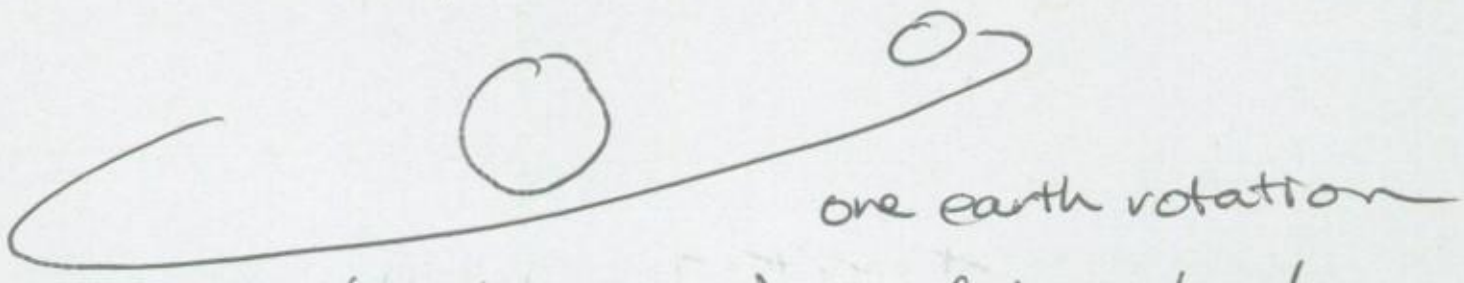
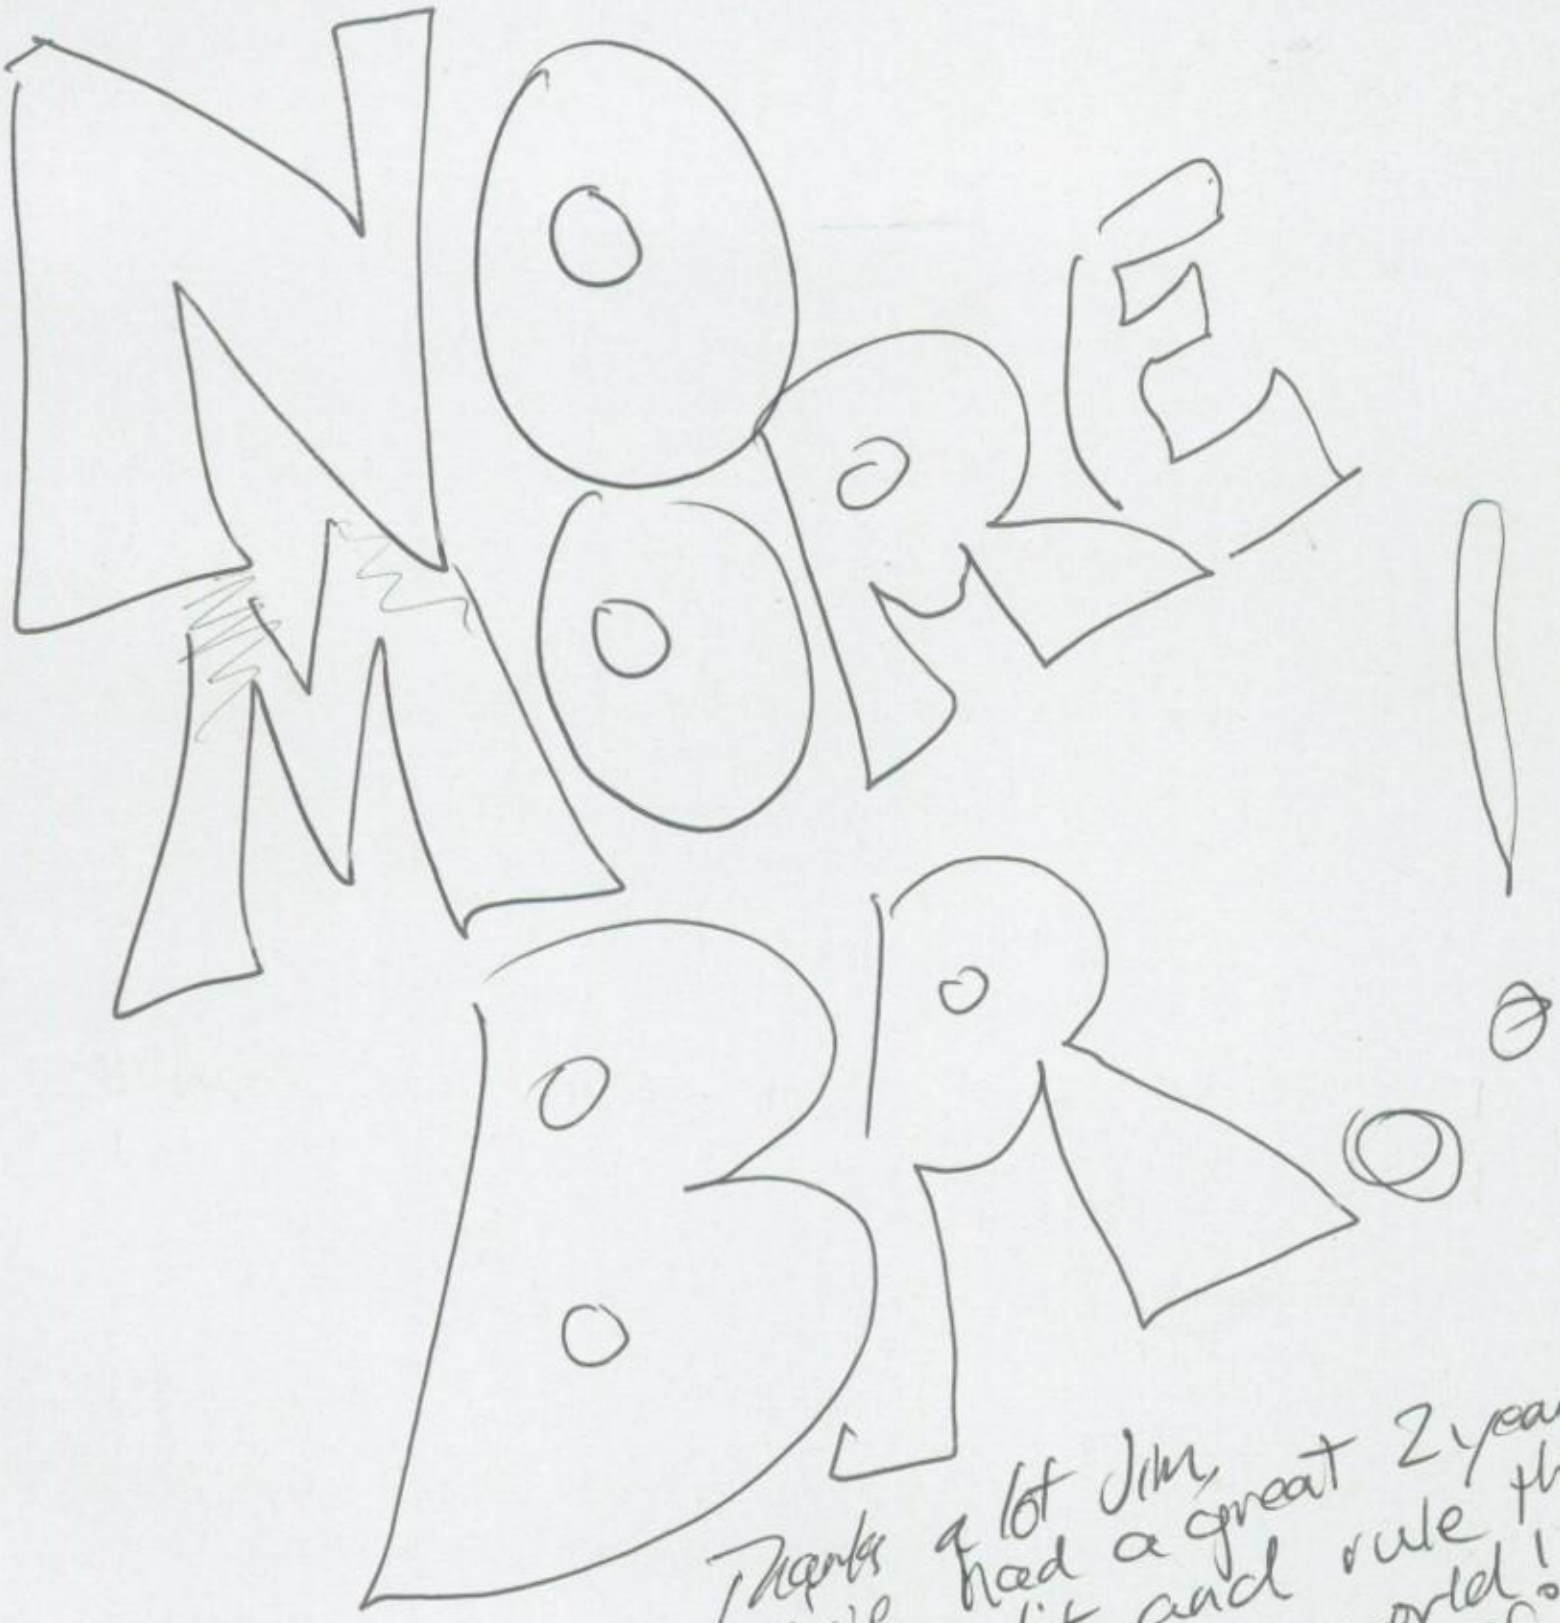
This sucks!
This yearbook is SO DAMN ANTICLIMATIC!
"oh what a great year, Go to SUBWAYS and buy our food"
now, a picture..."





they only put us in one class together Jim - dat sucked.



Thanks a lot Jim,
we've had a great 2 years
let's split and rule the world!
Take off
Mike

THESE TWO PAGES

Jim,
To your continued
sucess at book spinning.
You've lightened up my classes and helped this year go by faster.
Your friend,
Joe Ramelli

Je n'ai pas encore reçu
de tes nouvelles mais j'espère que tout va bien pour toi. Ici, tout va bien aussi. Je suis toujours à Londres
et je travaille
dans un magasin
de vêtements.
Mes parents
vont bien
aussi.
Et toi ?
Écris-moi
vite !
Je t'embrasse
très fort.
